MOURNING THE LOSS OF FORMER MLA, MINISTER AND SNOWBIRD LEADER YOGI HUYGHEBAERT

Premier Scott Moe expressed his condolences on behalf of Saskatchewan Party MLAs to the family and friends of Lieutenant-Colonel (retired) D.F. (Yogi) Huyghebaert, who passed away August 2 at the age of 74.

“After a long and distinguished military career, Yogi could have chosen to enjoy his retirement, but instead, he decided to continue his public service as one of the first members of the Saskatchewan Party,” Moe said. “He was a four-term MLA in opposition and government, a minister, and always a strong voice for his Wood River constituency and rural Saskatchewan.”

“He was a good friend and I will miss him.”

Huyghebaert joined the Royal Canadian Air Force in 1961. He was selected for pilot training and received his wings in 1968. He served as a squadron pilot in West Germany and a member of the embassy staff in Washington, DC before being selected to fly with and later lead the world famous Snowbirds. In 1987, Governor-General Sauve invested Huyghebaert with the Order of Military Merit for his exceptional service with the Canadian Forces.

After retiring from the military, Huyghebaert and his wife Phyllis lived on a small ranch near Glentworth. Huyghebaert was a prominent early member of the Saskatchewan Party, joining the party shortly after its creation in 1997 and then running in the first Saskatchewan Party leadership race in 1998.

Huyghebaert ran for the Saskatchewan Party in the 1999 provincial election, losing by a single vote. That result was overturned a short time later, and Huyghebaert won the 2000 byelection with a large majority. He was re-elected with huge majorities in 2003, 2007 and 2011, winning 82 per cent of the vote in his final election campaign in 2011. Huyghebaert decided not to seek re-election in 2016.

Huyghebaert served as Minister of Corrections, Public Safety and Policing and later as the government’s Military Liaison.

“As Public Safety minister, Yogi made significant improvements to the Provincial Disaster Assistance Program (PDAP), which at the time was too slow and ineffective in responding to people whose homes and businesses were damaged or destroyed by natural disasters,” Moe said. “Yogi greatly improved the coverage levels and reduced the turnaround time, so Saskatchewan people received the assistance they needed a lot more quickly.”

The flags at the Legislative Assembly will be lowered to half-staff until Huyghebaert’s funeral.

ORANO FUN ZONE PLAYGROUND OPENS AT THE SASKATOON FORESTRY FARM PARK & ZOO

It was a pleasure to participate in the unveiling of the new Orano Fun Zone playground! Visits to the Saskatoon Forestry Farm Park & Zoo (Zoo) are about to get even more fun with this new Orano Fun Zone playground! A state-of-the-art accessible playground, the Orano Fun Zone playground is an attraction of its own, certain to delight children of all ages.

The new playground features a variety of accessible components, including a nature-inspired themed PlayBoosterR Treehouse, OodlerR Swing, Talk Tubes, and much more!

“The new playground is an excellent addition to the Zoo,” says Tim Sinclair-Smith, Zoo Manager. “We couldn’t be more grateful for the work of the Saskatoon Zoo Foundation and the generous contribution from Orano Canada.”

The playground replaces an older wooden play structure and is located in a new, more accessible area next to the orchard in the Zoo. The major upgrade was made possible thanks to the efforts and dedication of the Saskatoon Zoo Foundation, which raises funds for capital projects and improvements within the Zoo.

“The Saskatoon Zoo Foundation could not be more excited for this playground. Working closely with Orano and our other playtime partners to build an accessible playground inside the Zoo is a true testament of community spirit. For a better tomorrow, we want our children to play today, and everyone involved is absolutely thrilled to see the playground’s addition to the wonderful experience the Zoo has to offer,” says Dawn Woroniuk, Executive Director, Saskatoon Zoo Foundation.

Through the Saskatoon Zoo Foundation, the project received a generous donation from Orano Canada Inc. as part of its commitment to invest in community initiatives in the regions where its employees reside. Orano Canada Inc. has been exploring for uranium, developing uranium mines, and producing uranium concentrate in Saskatchewan for over 50 years.

“We are proud to invest in our community and to support a facility such as the Saskatoon Forestry Farm Park & Zoo that serves so many in Saskatoon, in our province, and many visitors from beyond our borders. Despite the difficult times for our industry, Orano Canada has been planning for this contribution for some time and we are particularly pleased to have been able to contribute to the construction of this new, accessible playground as it allows all children to have the opportunity to play together,” says Tammy Van Lambalgen, Vice President Corporate Affairs & General Counsel of Orano Canada Inc. “The Orano Fun Zone provides a space within the Zoo for young children to learn and develop many skills while they play. It is an area that will be a fun stop for many families visiting the Zoo, including our own employees and their children.”

The Zoo is open daily from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Additional information, such as admission rates and details on the recently launched Season Pass, can be found at saskatoon.ca/zoo.

REPORT FROM THE LEGISLATURE

Report from the Legislature, July 26, 2018

One of the reasons we pursue economic growth is so we can help support families and those most vulnerable in our communities. One of the ways our government is working to do this is through individualized funding for children under the age of six with Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD).

The Autism Individualized Funding program is designed to provide parents with funding for therapeutic interventions and family supports that make the most sense for their needs. This year, $2.8 million has been allocated to provide $4,000 per child with ASD under the age of six.

In addition to autism services that will continue to be provided in the public system, it is estimated that approximately 700 children will be eligible for individualized funding this year. An application form and eligible services list have been posted at www.saskatchewan.ca/autism. Families who have applied and meet the program criteria will begin receiving funding in August 2018.

The Autism Individualized Funding program supports the 10-year Saskatchewan Disability Strategy and its vision of making Saskatchewan a more welcoming, inclusive, and accessible province for people who experience disabilities. The program also supports Saskatchewan's Early Years Plan and its goal of finding better ways to support children experiencing disabilities.

After experiencing a $1.3 billion drop in resource revenues, getting the province's finances back on track was key to ensuring the services our people expect are sustainable for generations to come. I am pleased to say our plan to get to a balanced budget by next year is on track as finances are continuing to improve. In fact, last year's deficit improved by nearly $400 million.

There are encouraging signs in our economy with Stats Canada figures showing Saskatchewan recently had the highest month-to-month job increase in six years. At the same time, manufacturing shipments in Saskatchewan are seeing the highest year-over-year growth out of all the provinces.

We need to do what we can to ensure our province's job creators can keep producing what the world needs, despite competitive challenges our nation faces like a forced federal carbon tax, limited market access for our manufactured goods, and a US tax and regulatory advantage.

Market access, trade between provinces and Canadian competitiveness were among the priorities discussed as Canada's Premiers gathered for meetings recently. It was there where our province gained a strong ally in Ontario as we stand against the Trudeau carbon tax in court.

We understand that taxing our families, jobs, and businesses is the wrong way to tackle what is a global climate challenge. The federal government's "one size fits all" approach to climate action is deeply out of touch with what provinces want. In our province, we have a made-in-Saskatchewan climate plan that will actually reduce emissions – and does so without a carbon tax.

We don't need taxes that drive opportunities for businesses out of Canada. As more and more Canadians realize that, we are seeing provinces like Ontario and Prince Edward Island join Saskatchewan in standing up for their citizens and saying no to an ineffective tax from Ottawa.

SASKATOON EXHIBITION PARADE ANOTHER HUGE SUCCESS

It was a beautiful day today for the Saskatoon Exhibition Day Parade. The kids have a great time riding on Ken Sawatsky's vintage fire truck which has been in the parade every year for as long as I can remember!

The Saskatoon Exhibition still remains a highlight of our summer activities. It was so much fun waving at the hundreds of spectators of all ages eagerly watching the many floats pass by. This is always a special time in our city. I encourage everyone to take in the great entertainment at the Exhibition which runs this week.

Special thanks to the enthusiastic children that rode with me on the firetruck in the Saskatoon Exhibition Day Parade. Thanks as well to the parents for bringing the kids out and an extra special thank you to the Sawatsky's for providing and driving the fire truck.

LET THE FUN BEGIN AT THE SASKATOON EXHIBITION!

The Saskatoon Exhibition is one of the largest events of the season in the Bridge City and runs the remainder of this week. Entrance to the fun at Prairieland Park is open at noon daily, rain or shine and runs through to August 12th. ages.

TAKE PRECAUTIONS AGAINST WEST NILE VIRUS

Saskatchewan residents are reminded to protect themselves against mosquito bites, as the peak season for West Nile Virus (WNV) approaches. There is increased risk of West Nile Virus in late July and August when the mosquitoes that carry the virus (Culex tarsalis) are most active and present in higher numbers. Currently, the risk is highest in southern Saskatchewan where positive pools of mosquitoes have been found for the past two weeks.

Most people who become infected with West Nile Virus experience no symptoms or have mild illness (fever, headaches, body aches).

SEAL COATING - SLOW DOWN AND SAVE YOUR WINDSHIELD

More than 445 kilometres of seal coating is planned across Saskatchewan this summer. During the seal coating process, hot liquid asphalt is sprayed on the road before crushed gravel is spread over the asphalt and packed down. “Seal coating is a cost-effective treatment that provides a waterproof surface, which in turn prolongs pavement life,” Highways and Infrastructure Minister David Marit said. “We appreciate everyone’s patience during the busy construction season and remind travellers to please pay attention in work zones, obey the signage and slow down.”

Seal coats require about 24 hours to cure, resulting in speed reductions even while workers are not present. These speed reductions allow the seal coat to cure properly, while also saving travellers windshields from damage.

GOVERNMENT TO TEST A NEW AND COLLABORATIVE APPROACH TO HELP TACKLE IMPAIRED DRIVING

A new, collaborative approach to help address impaired driving in Saskatchewan will be tested by the Government of Saskatchewan from the August long weekend until Labour Day. Five pilot projects have been designed through collaboration between various government ministries and agencies, law enforcement and Crown corporations. These projects will be implemented in different areas across the province.

“Saskatchewan has a problem with impaired driving and it’s important we approach this issue with all the tools at our disposal, because even one death or injury from impaired driving is too many,” Minister Responsible for Innovation Saskatchewan Tina Beaudry-Mellor said.

“Government, law enforcement and Crown corporations have come together on these five pilot projects that present innovative ways to look at a critical problem facing our province.”

The projects are:

Drive Dollars

Lead: Innovation Saskatchewan

Overview: In this project, bar patrons will be asked (as they order drinks) if they would like to put a small amount of money toward a “tab” for a designated driving service. This amount of money will be matched by the provincial government and the designated driving service. The project will gather data and assess whether a small matching contribution by the government would increase the likelihood of bar patrons planning ahead for a safe ride home.

Liquor Permit Regulatory Review

Lead: Saskatchewan Liquor and Gaming Authority

Overview: This project added two questions to the liquor permit application, to prompt applicants to develop a plan for guests to have a safe ride home.

Positive Ticketing

Lead: SGI

Overview: The project aim is for police officers to give a “positive ticket” to sober/designated drivers at scheduled police check stops and/or routine traffic stops. The tickets will encourage recipients to speak about their experience on social media using the hashtag #CareAboutImpaired. Ticket recipients who use the hashtag publicly will be eligible to win one of 25 $150 VISA gift cards.

Sobering Messages

Lead: Ministry of Corrections and Policing

Overview: This project is focused on impact messaging through a couple of streams.

- Community Engagement: having police officers visit local bars and pubs to encourage patrons to plan ahead and plan a safe ride home.
- Social Media Campaign building awareness around and promoting responsible use: the social media handles on Twitter, Instagram and Facebook are @Sask0804 using the #howareyougettinghome (Sask0804 refers to the August long weekend date as well as the impairment levels under the criminal code).

Packaging Innovation

Lead: Saskatchewan Liquor and Gaming Authority

Overview: This project involves placing children’s drawings on brown liquor store bags, to get people to consider and discuss the consequences of impaired driving.

Once complete, the project results will be analyzed to understand what initiatives may have the potential to reduce impaired driving in Saskatchewan when implemented on a larger scale.

WISHING FARMERS A SAFE HARVEST

Harvest operations are underway for some producers in the south, according to Saskatchewan Agriculture's weekly Crop Report. Crops are rapidly drying down across the province and many pulse crops are being desiccated. Most crops remain in fair to excellent condition, although later-seeded crops need rain to help heads and pods fill. Reported yields so far range from average to well-below average, depending on field and moisture conditions.

Most areas of the province did not receive any rain last week, although the Arborfield area reported 22 mm and the Macklin area 20 mm. Many southern and central areas have not received significant moisture for well over a month, and any future rainfall may be of limited benefit since most southern crops are quickly ripening.

PROVINCIAL 911 CENTRE TRANSITIONS TO NOT FOR PROFIT ORGANIZATION

August 1, Government Relations Minister Warren Kaeding announced that the Saskatchewan-based not-for-profit organization CanOps has been selected to manage the Provincial Emergency Communications Centre near Prince Albert, which is part of the Sask911 system.

“Founded in Saskatchewan, CanOps is uniquely qualified to take on this important role,” Kaeding said. “With their selection I am confident that 911 services in Saskatchewan will remain the same efficient, reliable, and professional service that we all depend on. I am also happy to note that this transition will not affect staffing or the centre, and citizens will not notice any change in service.”

CanOps was selected to manage the Provincial Emergency Communications Centre after a public tendering process concluded in the spring of 2018. It had been previously managed by the City of Prince Albert.

“We are honoured to be selected to take on the management of this important and essential service for the province of Saskatchewan,” President of CanOps John Saunders said. “We will continue to work with the province on a seamless transition, and to ensure that the transition does not affect the delivery of services or the staff. Going forward, we will ensure that we maintain the excellence in levels of service and support that the community has come to expect.”

MORE THAN 30 EARLY LEARNING DEAF AND HARD OF HEARING PILOT PROGRAM SPOTS TO OPEN THIS FALL

July 27 the Government of Saskatchewan announced that a new early learning pilot program for preschool-aged children who are deaf and hard of hearing, or connected to the Deaf and Hard of Hearing communities, will open in Regina and Saskatoon this fall. The program will be delivered through a partnership with the Saskatchewan Deaf and Hard of Hearing Services and Regina Public Schools.

One half-day program will operate in both Regina and Saskatoon, with up to 16 three and four-year-old children in each program. Parents or guardians of program-eligible children who are deaf and hard of hearing are encouraged to apply by contacting Regina Public Schools or Saskatchewan Deaf and Hard of Hearing Association directly. Additionally, siblings, cousins or family friends of a similar age, as well as children or family members of deaf and hard of hearing individuals are encouraged to apply in order to build communication and social skills and encourage ongoing learning and interaction.

“I know how important it is to make sure our youngest learners have every opportunity to succeed,” Deputy Premier and Minister of Education Gordon Wyant said. “Thanks to these new partnerships, I am pleased that children who need to access these supports can readily do so.”

NEW LONG-TERM FLOOD MITIGATION PROGRAM

Minister Responsible for the Saskatchewan Water Security Agency (WSA) Dustin Duncan announced a new long-term flood mitigation program for Saskatchewan communities. The Flood Damage Reduction Program (FDRP) takes a proactive and preventative approach in helping communities deal with long-term flood mitigation projects.

“Since the start of WSA’s Emergency Flood Damage Reduction Program in 2011, over 3,400 Saskatchewan clients have accessed $74 million to design and construct both temporary and permanent flood works,” Duncan said. “Shifting away from an emergency flood mitigation program to a permanent program allows communities to undertake long-term flood mitigation, reducing the risk of flooding in future years”

Each spring since 2011, WSA has launched an emergency flood mitigation program for immediate support to protect Saskatchewan communities from flood damages. Starting in August, the emergency program will now transition to the FDRP removing the emergency focus and looking more towards long-term projects.

Beginning on August 1, 2018, the new program helps municipalities in their proactive planning to address emergencies before they arise rather than repeatedly implementing temporary and reactive measures that stretch a community’s capacity in an emergency.

WATER SECURITY AGENCY URGES SASKATCHEWAN RESIDENTS TO BE CAUTIOUS OF DOORSTEP "WATER TESTING" KITS

The Water Security Agency (WSA) wishes to draw public attention to the business practices of private companies leaving "water testing kits" on people's doorsteps.

Recently, some residents across the province have been receiving these kits, which include a bottle and instructions for water testing. The instructions for taking a water sample are incorrect and the bottle provided does not appear to be sterilized. Residents should be cautious if they are encouraged to purchase water purification kits at the doorstep.

Public confidence in Saskatchewan's drinking water systems is a core priority for WSA. WSA partners with municipalities across Saskatchewan to ensure drinking water is safe, in accordance with national drinking water standards. Rigorous and ongoing testing requirements are a condition of WSA's permits of water systems.

The public can see testing results for all WSA regulated waterworks at <http://www.saskh2o.ca/MyDrinkingWater.asp>.
