HAPPY HALLOWEEN 2018

Have a safe and happy Halloween. Please take extra care driving and watch for the excited children in our communities. Slow down and watch for pedestrians. Parents, make sure your trick-or-treaters don't venture onto the roadway and put themselves at risk.

Halloween is an exciting day for children. The following is the safety tips provided by RCMP:

Parents and Guardians:

- Know who your children are going trick-or-treating with and when they plan to return home
- Remind children to stay in their neighbourhood
- Remind children of which houses they can go to for safety if they get scared
- Remind children to respect others' property by staying off of lawns and gardens and avoiding houses with the lights off

Children and Teens:

- Do not go trick-or-treating alone; go with a trusted adult or a group
- Let your parents know where you are going and for how long
- Stay in your neighbourhood and know where trusted people live so you can go there if you get scared
- Do not visit houses with the lights off
- Cross the street at marked crosswalks and intersections
- Wait for an adult to inspect your candy before eating it
- Only eat things that are in unopened wrappers
- When you get home, keep your treats in a safe spot, away from small children and pets

Motorists:

- Drive slowly, especially in residential areas
- Approach intersections with extreme caution
- Limit distractions in your vehicle in case you need to react quickly
- If possible, avoid driving through subdivisions and areas full of trick-or-treaters

Costume Tips:

- Wear light coloured or bright costumes, reflective tape and arm bands to increase visibility

Happy Halloween, and keep safe.

CROP REPORT FOR THE PERIOD OCTOBER 16 TO 22, 2018

After multiple weeks of delay, many producers were able to return to the field and complete harvest. Thanks to warm and dry weather last week, producers now have 92 per cent of the 2018 crop harvested, according to Saskatchewan Agriculture's Weekly Crop Report. This is up from 82 per cent last week, but slightly behind the five-year (2013-17) average of 94 per cent for this time of year.

While many producers have wrapped up harvest or expect to in the coming days, the rest will need at least another week or more of warm and dry weather.

Harvest is most advanced in the southwestern region, where 97 per cent of the crop is now combined. The southeastern and northeastern regions have 95 per cent combined, the west-central region 90 per cent and the east-central region 89 per cent. The northwest has made tremendous progress this past week and now has 82 per cent combined.

LEGISLATION INTRODUCED TO SUPPORT PRAIRIE RESILIENCE

Prairie Resilience: A Made-in-Saskatchewan Climate Change Strategy

Environment Minister Dustin Duncan introduced legislation in the Saskatchewan Legislature today that will facilitate key components of, and further advance, Prairie Resilience, the province's climate change strategy.

Bill 132, The Management and Reduction of Greenhouse Gases Amendment Act, provides the regulatory framework for performance standards to reduce industrial greenhouse gas emissions, a provincial technology fund, performance credits and offset credits.

"These amendments are an important step in fulfilling our government's promise to reduce emissions and make Saskatchewan more resilient to the impacts of climate change," Duncan said. "We already have an effective plan, and we are proceeding with industrial performance standards and compliance options in 2019 – especially with the federal government's recognition of Prairie Resilience."

HOME CARE INDIVIDUALIZED FUNDING IN SASKATCHEWAN GETS A $1.2 MILLION BOOST

More Saskatchewan residents will now have access to Home Care Individualized Funding. The province is investing an additional $1.2 million annually to expand the Individualized Funding option. This will reduce wait lists and assist with creating capacity within the existing home care program.

“Individualized Funding allows home care clients more choice and flexibility,” Health Minister Jim Reiter said. “The additional funding will give more people more choice for what best suits their individual needs.”

Home Care Individualized Funding provides funding directly to home care clients (or their caregivers) to arrange and manage their own supportive care services, including hiring their own staff and scheduling their staff when they want service. The Home Care Individualized Funding option for Home Care currently serves 128 individuals across the province.

ADOPTION SUPPORT CENTRE CELEBRATES 30 YEARS

The Government of Saskatchewan will be proclaiming November as Adoption Awareness Month in honour of the Adoption Support Centre of Saskatchewan's 30 years of service to Saskatchewan families.

“The Adoption Support Centre of Saskatchewan is an excellent partner, and we very much value the information, services and supports they provide to all individuals and families who are interested in, or connected through adoption in our province,” Social Services Minister Paul Merriman said. “Over the past 30 years, the organization has had the opportunity to touch many lives and I congratulate them on reaching this very important milestone.”

ALZHEIMER SOCIETY - LEARN MORE

One of our readers asked to share this important message.

The Alzheimer Society of Saskatchewan is dedicated to improving the lives of those affected by Alzheimer's disease and related dementia. With 10 more people in Saskatchewan developing a dementia every 24 hours, this is an critical issue for every Saskatchewan family and community.

They believe that part of the answer lies in creating dementia friendly communities to help reduce stigma and improve the quality of life of those affected by dementia. They also believe it is critical that we inform the public about the scale and nature of dementia and empower individuals to seek a timely and early diagnosis.

With that in mind, the Alzheimer Society has launched four major dementia friendly initiatives, supported by Government of Canada funding. These initiatives include a Warning Signs campaign, a Dementia Friends program, a Dementia Friendly Communities initiative, and the Dementia Helpline. They are part of a federally funded, collective impact approach to reduce social isolation of seniors in south and central Saskatchewan.

I look forward to seeing members of The Alzheimer Society of Saskatchewan at an awareness event on November 27th, 2018 at the Legislature in Regina.

Your team can get involved by a) delivering gifts and visiting with seniors, or b) raising money so gifts can be purchased for the 1200 residents living in long term care.

LEGISLATIVE REPORT

The new session of the legislature opened last week with a Throne Speech focused on our government's commitment to stand up for Saskatchewan people. This includes our plans to implement our Prairie Resilience Climate Change strategy, improve cellular coverage in rural communities, and deliver a balanced budget for 2019-20.

While our economy and the province's finances are showing signs of improvement, we are still facing challenges due to the threat of a damaging federal carbon tax, continued sanctions from the United States on our steel and uranium industries, and a deeply discounted price for our oil caused by a lack of pipelines.

The day before our Throne Speech, politicians from Ottawa made headlines with a new plan to hit Saskatchewan with a carbon tax. This scheme is a shell game where we would all be forced to pay more for basic necessities like fuel, heat and power.

Promising a new rebate for families to offset all of these increasing costs, The Trudeau Liberals are now desperately trying to convince us that we will actually be better off by paying more to gas up our vehicles, heat our homes and keep the lights on.

Most of us here in Saskatchewan have to drive a lot for work, and for our kids. We also have to heat our homes on some very cold days. The Trudeau carbon tax means that all of these things are going to cost a lot more – and those are just the direct costs.

Hockey rinks, rec centres, school divisions, and municipalities are all going to be paying a lot of carbon tax and, at the end of the day, that cost is going to get passed along to us.

Our agriculture sector will be hit hard as well, despite the federal government claiming otherwise. Producers will still pay on inputs such as road and rail transport, as well as natural gas and propane consumption in shops, barns and grain dryers.

Saskatchewan people won't be fooled. The new Trudeau carbon tax plan is a cynical attempt to buy your vote with your money.

Saskatchewan people know the Trudeau carbon tax is not good environmental or economic policy. An analysis from the University of Regina earlier this year estimated the federal carbon tax would hurt Saskatchewan's economy by almost $16 billion, with little effect on emissions.

Our government has a plan for the environment and reducing emissions – our Prairie Resilience strategy – which has been accepted by the federal government. The feds, however, are still choosing to put this punishing tax on Saskatchewan.

Prairie Resilience will apply new performance standards for Saskatchewan industry heavy-emitters and reduce greenhouse gas emissions from the oil and gas sector, while SaskPower continues to increase our renewable-energy generation.

We do not believe a carbon tax will be effective in tackling climate change. It will hurt Saskatchewan's economy and it will hurt Saskatchewan families' finances.

We will stand up for Saskatchewan people, fight the carbon tax, and this new federal Liberal vote-buying scheme.

Our constitutional court challenge continues and we are repeating our call for the federal government to respect our legal challenge and hold off imposing the carbon tax in Saskatchewan at least until the courts have decided.

In addition to standing up for Saskatchewan communities, families and businesses by challenging the Trudeau carbon tax in court, we will be advancing a number of new initiatives and legislation during the fall sitting. This includes:

- Completing the new 284-bed state-of-the-art Saskatchewan Hospital North Battleford to help those facing significant mental health needs;
- Continuing to improve response times and enhance officer visibility in rural Saskatchewan through the Protection and Response Team;
- Becoming the first province in Canada with Clare's Law – legislation designed to provide a framework for police services to disclose information about someone's violent or abusive past to intimate partners who may be at risk;
- Expanding interpersonal violence leave to include sexual violence of any kind;

- Amending The Saskatchewan Employment Act to create a new critically ill adult leave to allow family members of critically ill adults to take up to 15 weeks leave to care for their family member;
- Expanding parental leave from 37 weeks to 63 weeks and adding an additional week of maternity leave;
- Apologizing to Sixties Scoop survivors in our province who were impacted by historical government policies of child apprehension and adoption;
- Introducing changes to improve commercial driver training;
- Increasing funding to improve intersection safety throughout the province;
- Safely regulating the sale and distribution of cannabis through a competitive private model;
- Amending The Police Act to enable rural municipalities and municipalities with populations under 500 to join regional police services;
- Making changes to The Seizure of Criminal Property Act to make it easier for property to be seized if it has been acquired through unlawful activities;
- Introducing legislation on trespassing laws to better address the balance between members of the public and the rights of rural landowners; and
- Offering free hunting and fishing licenses to Canadian military veterans.

Our Throne Speech outlines our commitment to growing our economy and delivering important programs and services for the people of the province. While we face many challenges, Saskatchewan people are determined, resilient, resourceful and tenacious. Our government will always reflect those qualities as it stands up for our province and works to build a stronger Saskatchewan.

'That Never Happened' was co-written and directed by Ryan Boyko. Ryan grew up in Saskatoon. When Ryan Boyko was in high school, he saw a documentary about the Ukrainian Canadian Internment during the First World War. Boyko, a descendant of Ukrainians, was curious to find out more so he asked his teacher.

THAT NEVER HAPPENED reveals the story of Canada's first national internment operations between 1914 - 1920, when over 88,000 people were forced to register and more than 8,500 were wrongfully imprisoned in internment camps across Canada, not for anything they had done but because of where they came from. In 1954, the public records were destroyed and in the 1980s a few brave men and women began working to reclaim this chapter in history and ensure future generations would know about it.

Advance tickets are available for the opening screening (Friday, Nov 9th) of That Never Happened - Saskatoon, with director Ryan Boyko in attendance! Click here for information.
